AWARDS AND SCHOLARSHIPS DINNER

Martin Safran was an Assistant Principal who symbolized all that Assistant Principals aspire to be. In his honor, the Association of Assistant Principals (AAP) recognizes students who give of themselves to their school and/or community. The award application process requires a nomination by an assistant principal who is a member of the Association and an essay written by the candidate, in which they describe their service. In their essays, the students are asked to focus on three questions: Why is your contribution service important? How did it help change your school/community? What did you learn from the service? Those students who had demonstrated exceptional service received a two hundred dollar savings bond, a personalized plaque, and were recognized at a dinner which was held at the Marco Polo Restaurant on June 8, 2009.

Stewart Weiner was a former Assistant Principal of P.S. 20 Manhattan and an AAP Executive Board Member. In his honor, the Association has named the college scholarship fund for him. All AAP members who have a son or daughter in their senior year of high school may apply for the scholarship. In addition, the students must be pre-enrolled or accepted into an accredited college program. Candidates who were selected for the scholarship received one thousand dollars from the Association, and were also celebrated at the Marco Polo Restaurant.

At the June 8th Association of Assistant Principals' Awards and Scholarship Dinner, the students and their families were welcomed by the President of the Association, Sandy DiTrapani. Then, Brooklyn Borough President, Marty Markowitz, addressed the students and presented certificates to those students from the borough of Brooklyn. The president of the Council of School Supervisors and Administrators, Ernest Logan, and executive vice-president, Peter McNally, were also present, as well as the four former AAP presidents Mark Brodsky, Michael Ebenstein, Mark Goodwin and Donald Singer .
